Sunny's Story is Transforming the Lives of DC Children

Students in a Washington DC 5th grade class read Sunny's Story after Ginger Katz donated books to the students last spring. Ginger wrote Sunny's Story after a drug overdose killed her son Ian. Sunny's Story is told through the eyes of their family pet and helps children and parents around the world find the courage to speak out about drugs before it is too late.

The students' teacher says Sunny's Story had a profound effect on her class.

"In a school where violence is almost as prevalent as in the community surrounding it - it was incredible to see students sharing their stories openly. Sunny's Story provided me the opportunity to explain to them where drugs and gangs will lead them."

Ginger looks forward to sharing Ian's story and delivering her message of hope and inspiration to lead a drug-free life to the DC students.
